WASHINGTON CITY

Reassembling of Congress.

WASHINGTON Dec 1 — The reassembling of congress to day was favored by bright weather and attended with the usual pleasurable excitement of reunions of crowds of friends upon the floor of the senate and house of representatives and the presence of thousands of well dressed spectators of both sexes in all the galleries But the legislative proceedings were wholly devoid of special interest Very little attention was paid to the reading of the president's message for the manifest reason that nearly everybody had already become acquainted with its contents through newspapers, and there has been much less comment upon it at the capital to day than usual Western republicans very generally agree with the great body of democrats in condemning that portion which counsels retirement of greenbacks, and it is perfectly evident that the president's advice in this particular will have no effect during the existence of the present congress except possibly to make party capital for the democrats

Thurman's Views.

Senator Thurman referring to this recommendation says The trouble with the democratic party heretofore has been that it attacked the existing financial system but now he remarks the republicans if they sustain their president, will be compelled to fight the system It may be observed however that although President Hayes' recommendation for absolute retirement of greenbacks is a new subject for controversy the proposition contained in his message and in Secretary Sherman's report that greenbacks should be divested of their legal tender quality and be placed upon the same level as national bank notes is not by any means new On the contrary the latter recommendation was made by Secretary Bristow in 1874 and 1875 by Secretary Morrill in 1876 and in the same year by President Grant

Pacific Coast Members.

All members of the Pacific coast delegations were in their places at the capitol to day except Senators Farley Jones of Nevada Slater and Grover These, with the exception of Sharon are expected to-morrow

California Members Well Received.

Horace Davis Page and Pacheco were the recipients of warm congratulations and in fact received quite an ovation on the republican side of the chamber They introduced their fellow member Berry quite extensively to his party associates and he also received many congratulations upon his election and upon the fact that California will not be without a democratic representation in the house this session He was compelled to return to his lodgings early in the afternoon but his attack of malaria does not threaten to be dangerous

A New Collector.

There has been consulting among members of the California delegation to day with a view to agreeing upon some joint recommendation in regard to the appointment of a successor for collector of internal revenue Higbee No agreement has yet been reached except that all are opposed to going outside of California to find a man for the place as it is reported that President Hayes thinks of doing by favorably entertaining the candidacy of the son of the late Senator Morton now consul at Honolulu Most prominent California candidates from among whom the selection is likely to be made are ex Supervisor Fritz ex Congressman Charles Clayton ex Postmaster N A Stone, ex Deputy Collector Cooper E I Alexander of Alameda and F A Hess ck of Santa Cruz

Pacific Coast Members on the Chinese Portion of the Message

WASHINGTON Dec. 1 — The Pacific coast members of congress find very little ground for encouragement in the president's statement concerning the negotiations with the Chinese government in regard to the subject of restricting Mongolian immigration They remark that this portion of the message is so extremely general and diplomatic in its form of expression that although it may mean something practical may also mean practically nothing. They intend the more to seek for a clear interpretation from its author and if it be not satisfactory to mature their plans for legislative action accordingly

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

[illegible]

National Finances

[illegible] gave to the country [illegible] financial [illegible]

In view of the [illegible] Without [illegible] in value [illegible] with other [illegible] and production [illegible] increasing [illegible] our manufactures and [illegible] has caused a large balance of trade [illegible] which has been paid in gold from the 1st of July last to Nov 15th [illegible] to the amount of [illegible] 000 000 Since the resumption of specie payments there has been a marked and gratifying improvement [illegible] the government [illegible] bearing only four per cent [illegible] have been [illegible] that part of the national debt [illegible] redeemable under [illegible] laws [illegible] interest saved annually [illegible] during the debt since March 1 [illegible] is $11,27[illegible] 17 [illegible] is sold were large [illegible] small sums [illegible] the number of [illegible] countries is much greater than ever before

The amount of the national [illegible] will in less than two years [illegible] $500 000 0[illegible] of bears interest at the rate of five per cent [illegible] It is believed that this part of the public debt can be refunded by the issue of four per cent [illegible] and [illegible] reduction of interest [illegible] will thus be effected [illegible] to secure this important reduction of interest to be paid by the United States further legislation is required which it is hoped will be provided by congress during its present session

The coinage of gold by the mints of the United States during the last fiscal year was [illegible] [illegible] silver [illegible] since the passage of the act for that purpose up to Nov 1 [illegible] was $45 000 8[illegible] of which $12,000 341 have been issued from the treasury and are now in circulation and [illegible] are still in the possession of the government

The pendency of the proposition for [illegible] between the United States and the principal commercial nations of Europe to effect a permanent system for the equality of gold and silver as the recognized money of the world leads me to recommend that congress refrain from new legislation on the general subject The great revival of trade internal and foreign will supply during the coming year its own instructions which may well be awaited before attempting further experimental measures with the coinage

I would however strongly urge upon congress the importance of authorizing the secretary of the treasury to suspend the coinage of silver dollars upon the present legal ratio The market value of the silver dollar being uniformly and largely less than the market value of the gold dollar it is obviously impracticable to maintain them at par with each other if both are coined without limit If the cheaper coin is forced into circulation it will if coined without limit soon become the sole standard of value and thus defeat the desired object which is the currency of both gold and silver which shall be of equivalent value dollar for dollar with the universally recognized money of the world The retirement from circulation of United States notes with capacity of legal tender in private contracts is a step to be taken in our progress toward a safe and stable currency which should be accepted as the policy and duty of the government and the interest and security of the people It is my firm conviction that the issue of legal tender paper money based wholly upon the authority and credit of the government except in extreme emergency is without warrant of the constitution and a violation of sound financial principles The issue of United States notes during the late civil war, with the capacity of legal tender between private individuals was not authorized except as a means of rescuing the country from imminent peril The circulation of these notes as paper money for any protracted period of time after the accomplishment of this purpose was not contemplated by the framers of the law under which they were issued They anticipated the redemption and withdrawal of these notes at the earliest practicable period consistent with the attainment of the object for which they were provided The policy of the United States steadily adhered to from the adoption of the constitution has been to avoid the creation of a national debt and when from necessity in the time of war debts have been created they have been paid off on the return of peace as rapidly as possible With this view and for this purpose it is recommended that the existing laws for accumulation of a sinking fund sufficient to extinguish the public debt within a limited period be maintained If any change of the objects or rates of taxation is deemed necessary by congress it is suggested that experience has shown that a duty can be placed on tea and coffee, which will not enhance the price of those articles to the consumer and will add several millions of dollars annually to the treasury

The Suppression of Polygamy

The continued and deliberate violation by a large number of the prominent and influential citizens of the territory of Utah of the laws of the United States for the prosecution and punishment of polygamy demands the attention of every department of the government. This territory has a population sufficient to entitle it to admission as a state and the general interests of the nation and territory require its advance from the territorial form of government to the responsibilities and privileges of a state This important change will not however be approved by the country while the citizens of Utah, in very considerable number uphold a practice which is condemned as a crime by the laws of all civilized communities throughout the world The law for the suppression of this offence was enacted with great unanimity by congress more than 17 years ago but has remained until recently a dead letter in the territory of Utah, because of the peculiar difficulties attending its enforcement The opinion widely prevailed among the citizens of Utah that the law was in contravention of the constitutional guarantee of religious freedom This objection is now removed The supreme court of the United States has decided the law to be within the legislative power of congress and binding as a rule of action for all who reside within the territories There is no longer any reason for delay or hesitation in its enforcement It should be firmly and effectively executed If not sufficiently stringent in its provisions it should be amended and in aid of the purpose in view I recommend that more comprehensive and more searching methods for preventing as well as punishing this crime be provided If necessary to secure obedience to the law the enjoyment and exercise of the rights and privileges of citizenship in the territories of the United States may be withheld or withdrawn from those who violate or oppose the enforcement of the law on this subject

The Elections

The elections of the past year though occupied only with state officers, have not failed to elicit on the political questions which [illegible] them all over the country new and decisive evidence of the deep interest which the great [illegible] take in the progress of the country toward a more general and complete establishment [illegible] at every cost of universal freedom and security [illegible] exercise of the elective franchise While many [illegible] political contests [illegible] people both in the sphere of national and state authority [illegible] expressed in my last annual message that [illegible] temporary or administrative interests of government [illegible] will ever [illegible] public opinion will override all [illegible] all sectional and [illegible] [illegible] the name and character [illegible] of the United States [illegible]

Reforming the Civil Service

[illegible]

Civil Service.

[illegible] compensation for the expenses [illegible] has been postponed until [illegible] with transmit [illegible] form [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] whom that country is devoted [illegible] these officers irrespective of partisan politics Their duties are the same whatever party is in power [illegible] should not be [illegible] supremacy of any party but should be determined by their capacity to serve the people most efficiently [illegible] partisan interests [illegible] the supervision [illegible] authority of appointment and removal is not a [illegible] under all the sanctions which [illegible] to apply the public funds [illegible] party purposes Every citizen has an equal right to the honor and profit of entering the public service of his country the only just [illegible] is the measure of character and capacity [illegible] to the people [illegible] [illegible] the theory of [illegible] offices and promotions are bestowed as rewards for past services to party [illegible] upon any theory which disregards personal merit as a test of fitness [illegible] well known [illegible] In the light of these principles it becomes of great importance to provide just and adequate means especially for every department and large administrative office where personal discrimination on the part of its head is not practicable for ascertaining those qualifications to which appointments should have reference To fail to provide such means is not only to deny the opportunity of ascertaining the facts upon which the most righteous claim to office depends but of necessity to discourage all worthy aspirants by handing over appointments and promotions to mere influence and favoritism If it is the right of the worthiest claimant to gain appointment and the interest of the people to bestow it on him it would seem clear that a wise and just method of ascertaining the personal fitness for office must needs be an important and permanent function of every just and wise government It has long since become impossible in the great offices, for those having the duty of nomination and appointment to personally examine into the individual qualifications of more than a small proportion of those seeking office and with the enlargement of the civil service that proportion must continue to become less In the earlier years of the government the subordinate offices were so few in number that it was easy for those making appointments and promotions to personally ascertain the wants of the candidates Party managers and methods had not then become powerful agencies of coercion hostile to the free and just exercise of the appointing power A large and responsible part of the duty of restoring the civil service to the desired purity and efficiency rests upon the president and it has been my purpose to do what is within my power to advance such prudent and gradual measures of reform as will most surely and rapidly bring about that radical change of system essential to make our administrative methods satisfactory to a free and intelligent people By a proper exercise of authority it is in the power of the executive to do much to promote such a reform but it cannot be too clearly understood that nothing adequate can be accomplished without co-operation on part of congress and considerate and intelligent support among the people Reforms which challenge the generally accepted theories of parties and demand changes in the methods of departments are not the work of a day Their permanent foundations must be laid in sound principles and in an experience which demonstrates their wisdom and exposes the errors of their adversaries Every worthy officer desires to make his official action a gain and an honor to his country but the people demand far more of their officers in public station They are interested in a pure economical and vigorous administration By laws enacted in 1853 and 1855 and now in substance incorporated in the revised statutes the practice of arbitrary appointment to the several subordinate grades in the great departments was condemned, and examinations as to the capacity to be conducted by departmental boards of examiners, were provided for and made a condition of admission to the public service These statutes are a decision by congress that examinations of some sort as to attainments and capacity are essential to the well being of the public service The important questions since the enactment of those laws have been as to the character of the examinations and whether official favor and partisan influence or common right and merit were to control examinations In practice these examinations have already been open to worthy persons generally who might wish to be examined Official and partisan favoritism as a rule appears to have designated those who alone were permitted to go before the examining boards, subjecting even the examiners to a pressure from the friends of the candidates very great difficulty to resist As a consequence the standard of admission fell below that which the public interest demanded It was almost inevitable that a system which provided for various separate boards of examiners with no common supervision or uniform method of procedure should result in confusion inconsistency and inadequate tests of capacity highly detrimental to the public interests Further and more radical change was absolutely required

In the annual message of December 1870 my predecessor declared that there is no duty which so much embarrasses the executive and heads of departments as that of appointments nor is there any such arduous and thankless labor imposed on senators and representatives as that of finding places for constituents The present system does not secure the best men and often not even fit men for public places The elevation and purification of the civil service of the government will be hailed with approval by the whole people of the United States Congress accordingly passed the act approved March 1871 to regulate the civil service of the United States and promote the efficiency thereof giving the necessary authority to the executive to inaugurate a civil service reform Acting under this statute which was interpreted as [illegible] a number of just and effectual examinations [illegible] supervision [illegible] eminently competent persons were selected for the purpose They entered with zeal upon the discharge of their duties prepared with an intelligent appreciation of the requirements of the service and the regulations contemplated and took charge of the examinations In their capacity as a board they have been known as the civil service commission Congress for two years appropriated the money needed for the compensation and for the expense of carrying on the work of the commission It appears from the report of the commission submitted to the president in April 1874 that examinations [illegible] in the various sections of the country

[illegible] that an appropriation of about $25 000 would be [illegible] the annual expense [illegible] [illegible] of the commission [illegible] the report was transmitted to [illegible] [illegible]

The Treaty of Washington.

Our relations with foreign countries have continued peaceful With Great Britain there are still unsettled questions growing out of the local laws of the maritime provinces and the action of provincial authorities deemed to be in derogation of rights secured by American fishermen The United States minister in London has been instructed to present a demand for $105 305 in view of the damages received by American citizens at Fortune bay in January 1878 The subject has been taken into consideration by the British government and an early reply is anticipated upon the completion of the necessary examinations The subject of our participation in the provincial fisheries as regulated by treaty will at once be brought to the attention of the British government with a view to an early and permanent settlement of the whole question which was only temporarily adjusted Efforts have been made to obtain the removal of restrictions found injurious to the exportation of cattle to the United Kingdom Some correspondence has also occurred with regard to the rescue and saving of life and property upon the lakes which has resulted in important modifications of the previous regulations of the dominion government on the subject in the interest of humanity and commerce

International Exhibitions

In accordance with the joint resolution of the last session of congress commissioners were appointed to represent the United States at the two international exhibitions in Australia one of which is now in progress at Sydney and the other to be held next year at Melbourne A desire has been expressed by our merchants and manufacturers interested in the important and growing trade with Australia that an increased provision should be made by congress for the representation of our industries at the Melbourne exhibition of next year and the subject is respectfully submitted to your favorable consideration

The New French Cable

The assent of the government has been given to the landing on the coast of Massachusetts of a new and independent transatlantic cable between France by way of the French island of St Pierre and this country subject to any future legislation of congress On this subject the conditions imposed before allowing this connection with our shores to be established, are such as to secure its competition with any existing or future lines of marine cable and preclude amalgamation therewith to provide for the entire equality of rights to our government and people with those of France in the use of the cable and prevent any exclusive possession of the privileges as accorded by France to the disadvantage of any future cable communication between France and the United States which may be projected and accomplished by our citizens and an important reduction The present rate of communication with Europe is felt to be too burdensome to the interests of our commerce that must necessarily flow from the establishment of this competing line The attention of congress was drawn to the propriety of some general regulation by congress of the whole subject of transmarine cables by my predecessor in his message of December 7, 1875 and I respectfully submit to your consideration the importance of congressional action in this matter

The War in Cuba.

A question of grave importance with Spain growing out of the incidents of the Cuban insurrection have been for the most part happily and honorably settled It may be reasonably anticipated that the commission now sitting in Washington for the decision of private cases in this connection will soon be able to bring its labors to a conclusion The long standing question of East Florida claims has lately been renewed as a subject of correspondence and may possibly require congressional action for its final disposition

Other Foreign Relations.

A treaty with the Netherlands with respect to consular rights and privileges, similar to those with other powers has been signed and ratified and the ratifications were exchanged on the 1st of July last Negotiations for extradition treaties with the Netherlands and with Denmark are now in progress

Some questions with Switzerland in regard to pauper and convict emigrants have arisen but it is not doubted that they will be arranged upon a just and satisfactory basis A question has also occurred with respect to an asserted claim by Swiss municipal authorities to exercise tutelage over the persons and property of Swiss citizens naturalized in this country It is possible that this may require adjustment by treaty

With the German empire frequent questions arise in connection with the subject of naturalization and expatriation but the imperial government has constantly manifested a desire to strictly maintain and comply with all treaty stipulations in regard to them

In consequence of the omission of congress to provide for a diplomatic representative at Athens the legation to Greece has been withdrawn There is now no channel of diplomatic communication between the two countries and the expediency of providing for one in some form is submitted to congress

Relations with Austria, Russia, Italy Portugal Turkey and Belgium continue amicable and there is marked by no incident of especial importance

A change of the personal head of the government of Egypt has taken place No change however has occurred in the relations between Egypt and the United States The action of the Egyptian government in presenting to the city of New York one of the ancient obelisks which possess such historical interest is highly appreciated as a generous mark of international regard If prosperity should attend the enterprise of its transportation across the Atlantic its erection in a conspicuous position in the chief commercial city of this nation will [illegible]

South American Relations

Diplomatic relations with Colombia are again [illegible] that country [illegible] United States This is especially fortunate in view of the fact that the question of an interoceanic canal has recently assumed a new and important aspect and is now under discussion with the Central American countries [illegible] the Nicaragua route [illegible] It is trusted that [illegible] will [illegible] the early [illegible] of such a work will largely inure to the benefit not only of their own [illegible] and the United States but of the [illegible] of the world It is not doubted that should the work be undertaken under the protective auspices of the United States and upon satisfactory concessions for the right of way and its security by the Central American governments the capital for its completion would readily be furnished from this country and Europe which [illegible] failing, other guarantees prove inadequate

Diplomatic relations with China have also been strengthened by the reception of a minister from [illegible]

The war between Peru Bolivia and Chili still [illegible] The United States have not deemed it proper to interpose in the matter further than to convey to all the governments concerned the assurance that the friendly offices of the government of the United States for the restoration of peace upon an honorable basis will be extended in case the belligerents shall exhibit a readiness to accept them

Cordial relations continue with Brazil and the Argentine Republic and trade with those countries is improving A provision for regular and more frequent mail communication in our own ships between the ports of this country and the nations of South America, seems to me to deserve the attention of congress as an essential precursor of an enlargement of our commerce with them and an extension of our carrying trade

The recent revolution in Venezuela has been followed by the establishment of a provisional government This government has not yet been formally recognized and it is deemed desirable to await the proposed action of the people which is expected to give it the sanction of constitutional forms

A naval vessel has been sent to the Samoan Islands to make a survey and take possession of the privileges ceded to the United States by Samoa in the harbor of Pago Pago A coaling station is to be established there which will be convenient and useful to United States vessels

The subject of opening diplomatic relations with Roumania and Servia now become independent sovereignties is at present under consideration and is the subject of diplomatic correspondence

There is a gratifying increase of trade with nearly all European and American countries and it is believed that with judicious action in regard to its development it can and will be still more enhanced, and that American products and manufactures will find new and expanding markets The reports of diplomatic and consular officers upon this subject under the system now adopted have resulted in obtaining much valuable information which has been and will continue to be laid before congress and the public from time to time

The Condition of Alaska.

The third article of the treaty with Russia of March 30 1867, by which Alaska was ceded to the United States provides that the inhabitants of the ceded territory with the exception of the uncivilized native tribes shall be admitted to the enjoyment of all the rights of citizens of the United States and shall be maintained and protected in the free enjoyment of their liberty of property and religion The uncivilized tribes are subject to such laws and regulations as the United States may from time to time adopt in regard to the aboriginal tribes of that country Both the obligations of this treaty and the necessities of the people require that some organized form of government over the territory of Alaska be adopted There appears to be no law for the arrest of persons charged with common law offenses—such as assault, robbery and murder and no magistrate authorized to issue or execute process in such cases Serious difficulties have already arisen from offenses of this character not only among the original inhabitants but among citizens of the United States and other countries who have engaged in mining, fishing and other business operations within the territory. A bill authorizing the appointment of justices of the peace and constables, and the arrest and detention of persons charged with criminal offenses and providing for an appeal to U. S. courts for the district of Oregon in suitable cases, will, at a proper time be submitted to congress.

The Public Finances.

The attention of congress is called to the annual report of the secretary of the treasury on the condition of the public finances. The ordinary revenues from all sources for the fiscal year ending June 30 1879 were $273 827,184 46. The ordinary expenditures for the same period were $266 947,883 53 leaving a surplus revenue for the year of $6 879 300 93 The receipts for the present fiscal year ending June 30 1880 actual and estimated, are as follows Actual receipts for the first quarter commencing July 1, 1879 $79,843 646 62, estimated receipts for the remaining three-quarters of the year $208 156 336 30 Total receipts for the current fiscal year actual and estimated $288 000,000 The expenditures for the same period will be actual and estimated, as follows, For the quarter commencing July 1 1879 actual expenditures $91 683 385 10, and for the remaining three quarters of the year, the expenditure are estimated at $172 316 614 90 making the total expenditures $264 000 000 and leaving an estimated surplus revenue for the year ending June 30, 1880 of $24,000 000 The total receipts during the next fiscal year ending June 30 1881 estimated according to existing laws will be $288 000 000 and the estimated ordinary expenditures for the same period will be $278 097,364 39 for that year The large amount expended for arrears of pensions during the last and the present fiscal year, amounting to $21,747,249 60, has prevented the application of the full amount required by law to the sinking fund for the current year but these arrears having been substantially paid it is believed that the sinking fund can hereafter be maintained without any change of existing law

The Army and Navy.

The secretary of war reports that the war department estimates for the fiscal year ending June 30 1881 are $40 380 428 93 the same being for a less sum of money than any annual estimate rendered to congress from that department during a period of at least twelve years He concurs with the general of the army in recommending such legislation as will authorize the enlistment of the full number of 25 000 men for the line of the army exclusive of the 3460 men required for detached duty and therefore not available for service in the field. He also recommends that congress be asked to provide by law for the disposition of a large number of abandoned military posts and reservations which, though very valuable in themselves have been rendered useless for military purposes by the advance of civilization and settlement He unites with the quartermaster general in recommending that an appropriation be made for the construction of a cheap and perfectly fire proof building for the safe storage of a vast amount of money accounts vouchers claims and other valuable records now in the quartermaster general's office and exposed to great risk of total destruction by fire. He also recommends in conformity with the views of the judge advocate general some declaratory legislation in reference to the military statute of limitations as applied to the crime of desertion In these several recommendations I concur

The secretary of war further reports that the work for the improvement of the south pass of the Mississippi river under contract with Mr James B Eads made in pursuance of an act of congress has been prosecuted during the past year with a greater measure of success in the attainment of results than during any previous year The channel through the south pass which at the beginning of June 1875, had a depth of only seven and one-half feet of water had on the 8th of July 1879 a minimum depth of twenty six feet, having a width of not less than 200 feet and a central depth of thirty feet Payments have been made in accordance with the statute as the work progressed amounting in the aggregate $4 250 000 and further payments will become due as provided by the statute in the event of success in maintaining the channel now secured

The reports of the general of the army and of his subordinates present a full and detailed account of the military operations for the repression of hostilities among the Indians of the Ute and Apache tribes and praise is justly awarded to the officers and troops engaged for promptness skill and courage displayed

The past year has been one of almost unbroken peace and quiet on the Mexican frontier and there is reason to believe that the efforts of this government and of Mexico to maintain order in that region will prove permanently successful This department was enabled during the past year to find temporary though crowded accommodations and a safe depository for a portion of its records in the completed east wing of the building designed for the state war and navy departments The construction of the north wing of the building a part of the structure intended for the use of the war department is being carried forward with all practicable dispatch and the work should receive from congress such liberal appropriations as will secure its speedy completion

TUESDAY MORNING DEC 2 1879

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The [illegible] was presented to the two houses [illegible] yesterday [illegible] be [illegible]. It is apparent that [illegible] has been [illegible] the message [illegible] that of [illegible] than [illegible] the [illegible] the question of the day will probably be [illegible] recent events have [illegible] excited by [illegible] serene Hayes [illegible] say more [illegible] upon them. At least he never [illegible] things in a way to arrest the deepest attention of the people or to startle the public mind. Upon financial topics he expresses the [illegible] of the administration [illegible] more vigorously than he did a year ago. His message then contained nothing of [illegible] in regard to this important [illegible]. While it did not please the adherents of the greenback fallacy or the supporters of [illegible] bimetallic currency theory it gave [illegible] encouragement to those who were in favor of it and financial views. The Oregonian [illegible] commenting on the message last year said

The message contains no statement of the financial situation worthy of the occasion and no recommendations on the subject such as the time requires. It is indeed suggested that there be no radical change in existing financial legislation but the president does not state what every intelligent person sees namely that our existing financial legislation is clumsy and incongruous that it is a disturbing element in business, that the attempt to maintain two monetary standards differing widely in value must surely produce disorder and ultimately fail and that the forcing of underweighted silver coin into our circulation must either defeat resumption or finally bring the currency and business of the country down to the level of debased silver. The president knows all this and where could it be stated with more propriety and potency than in his message to congress? If we are not to look for a courageous exposition of sound doctrine in such a document and on such an occasion when and where should we expect it?

Upon this topic the president now says "The market value of the silver dollar being uniformly and largely less than the market value of the gold dollar it is obviously impracticable to maintain them at par value with each other if both are coined without limit. If the cheaper coin is forced into circulation it will if coined without limit soon become the sole standard of value." This view the president might have taken a year ago and have saved himself and the administration the trouble now of having to correct an evil which was then in its incipiency. His views upon the inexpediency of continuing for a protracted period the issuance of paper money based "solely on the credit of the government after the causes of its necessity in the first place have ceased to exist, are largely those of many of the sound financiers of the day, with some modifications. Whether the time has fully come for the retirement of all the paper money issued by authority of the government is an important point in the question which the president does not fully elucidate. However his message in this regard will still more discourage the fiat element, and will at the same time cause the hard money men to consider more carefully the question whether the president is not led by the apparent complete success of the resumption act so far to hasten matters beyond the capacity of the country or the actual wants of the times. He is very radical now upon this question if upon no other.

Upon the subject of the freedom of elections and the protection of all classes of voters in the exercise of the right of suffrage in all parts of the country, the message is not too brief though more point might have been given it, by more direct reference to the violations of this sacred right, which cannot have escaped the attention of the executive as they have not that of the country. While theories of the president upon this subject are proper they are vaguely expressed and the message will be unsatisfactory in that it points out no definite remedy for the evils the removal of which it is admitted would so greatly tend to the pacification of the country and the general diffusion of prosperity.

Civil service reform always a strong card with his excellency, is promulgated as one of the important duties devolving upon the departments of the government and it is urged with as much force as if it were really a great measure and practicable under our political system. The veriest tyro in the school of American politics knows better than to believe that without an entire change in our system of choosing officers, the tenure of official position cannot be made to depend on anything else than the continued supremacy of the party which gives that position. This hobby of civil service comes in as a sort of a matter of course with the present executive and it will have but little influence upon the country, which will regard it as little more than mere words.

On Indian affairs the president actually appears to entertain the Utopian idea of the eastern sentimentalists, that these wards of the government only need to be told what course they ought to pursue in order to become like the whites, and they will follow it from choice. His idea that the puny efforts of the government to school a few Indian children in Virginia and Oregon will be followed by such results upon the three hundred thousand savages within the limits of the United States, that they will all become civilized and peaceable is worthy of John Beeson or of A. B. Meacham. The Indian will follow the pursuits of civilized life as long as they do not conflict with his natural propensity to laziness and vagabondage and when they do so he will abandon them for that sort of a life which has been led by him and his ancestors for hundreds of years past. The appointment of honest men to the management of Indian affairs and the maintenance of bodies of soldiers at those points throughout the country which are exposed to the raids of the savages will have far more effect in hostile contact between them and the whites than all the schools for the education of Indian children that the government could maintain and establish for the next twenty five years. We believe in the humanity of the system, but are wholly skeptical as to its practical results.

The army and navy are mentioned as matters of form in the message and our foreign relations referred to though nothing new in regard to them is promulgated or suggested. A question which is attracting as much importance as any other now before the country and one which affects all classes is passed over in perfect silence. The revision of the tariff laws so as to relieve the people of some of the burdens imposed upon them for the benefit of a few manufacturers [illegible] is not hinted at. The only reference to this question which has always received [illegible] consideration in such documents [illegible] being that duties might be laid on tea and coffee which would bear lightly on the consumers and add largely to the revenue of the government.

Altogether there is nothing in the message that will create any particular excitement or arouse any discussion unless it be the position which the president takes on finances and his party will probably give him only a partial support in this matter. There is not much that is new or entirely original most of its matter being a compilation of department reports, or a review of the affairs of the government which have already been given to the public by the enterprising journals of [illegible].

OREGON IRON INTEREST

With the increase of population in this part of the [illegible] there will [illegible] soon be [illegible] every [illegible]. In a few years we will have a [illegible] through the [illegible] east and many branches will be [illegible] traffic for them. These [illegible] will ramify the fertile valleys of the [illegible] their construction will [illegible] a large [illegible] of iron. This requirement will be [illegible]. The real expense of [illegible]. The grading [illegible] but iron or steel rails to [illegible] take [illegible] hundred tons of rails to lay a mile of track at $60 a ton freight included this one item amounts to $6000 per mile [illegible] with the full development of the iron mines in this section of the [illegible] best quality could be purchased at about one half [illegible] cost. The demand is certain to increase and will be enormous. We are glad to see that the one establishment in Oregon of this character is being enlarged and hope the enterprise and energy of its proprietors will see the opportunity to make it a great leading feature of the industries of this region. Now that capital is everywhere recognizing the importance of [illegible] as a part of the country and idle money is seeking investment in legitimate mining or other enterprises the people of Oregon should encourage this great interest. It may in time become as important as the wheat wool and salmon interests and exceed in value the gold and silver mines of the state.

In every county in New York from which we have seen the official figures Cornell received a less vote than the lowest man on the balance of the republican ticket. His unpopularity seems to have prevailed in every part of the state. Kelly's candidacy is the only thing that saved him.

TUESDAY MORNING DEC 2 1879

WEATHER PROBABILITIES

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN

WASHINGTON Dec 2—1 30 A. M—For Pacific coast regions clear or clearing weather preceded by light rains from northern California northward

CITY.

DASTARDLY ATTEMPT AT ARSON—Last night about half past 11 o clock as Mrs Dr Murray who occupies a suit of five or six rooms in the Monastes building on First street returned from a professional visit and entered her apartments she found a strong smell of coal oil pervading the rooms. As soon as possible a light was procured and it was discovered that some unknown villain had broken through the plaster in several of the apartments of three or four rooms and poured kerosene down between the walls in at least a dozen different places. The walls where the plastering was disturbed were heavily saturated. One place in the closet was smoking evidently having been fired only a few moments previous. The fire then had no chance to spread rapidly there being little or no draught, and it was quickly extinguished. Mrs Murray left the rooms about 7 a f p as night and as usual the doors were not locked. It is probable that the incendiary or incendiaries were frightened away from the devilish deed before they had time to set fire to the saturated places. If all had caught fire an extensive conflagration would inevitably have followed.

SHIP'S LOG.—Following is the log of the ship Ellen McNeil which has arrived at Astoria from Philadelphia. First week light winds and calms. Crossed the equator in 38 days light winds and calms. Longitude 3 ° and 3 minutes. From equator to 40° south latitude, fine moderate weather of 26 days. From 40° south, around the Horn to 40° strong W & W gales decks 41 days full of water all the time heavy seas under close reefed sails and courses most of the time. From 40° south to the equator 19 days longitude 130° W., crossed. From equator up with in 100 miles of Point Adams 25 days. Five days calms off port, making a passage of 154 days. All well.

GOOD TEMPLAR ENTERTAINMENT.—Thanksgiving evening a musical and literary entertainment was given by Paradise Spring lodge to reduce the indebtedness on their new hall. An attractive programme was presented and creditably rendered, while the proceeds were quite substantial. The following officers of the lodge were recently installed: W C T Gilham, W V T Miss Lettie Hosford, W S O E Fields, W A S Miss Dora Hosford, W F S Olin Hosford, W T Hosford, W Chap Frank Gilham, W M Ed Peterson, W I G Henry Prettyman, W O G Alcion Francis, C E Lodge deputy, and Mrs Prettyman P W C T.

STEAMSHIP STATEMENT.—The statement in an evening paper that the State of California had been sold to the Oregon Steamship Company, that the Elder would be withdrawn and sailing dates changed has no foundation in fact. It had been rumored about a week ago that owing to the dullness of business one of the steamers would be temporarily laid off, but this was idle outside talk. The agents of the Oregon Steamship Company and the Pacific Coast Steamship Company say they have no information concerning any change from the present arrangement nor do they know that any change is even contemplated.

She again peremptorily refused to marry Fook and said that the money was gone. This angered Ah Wing, who drew a revolver and shot her. After they had made their escape from her house Wing told Fook to confess that he Fook had committed the crime and that both could thus escape punishment. This is Fook's side of the story.

When questioned as to his religious belief (it was reported that he had been Christianized) Fook said that he had studied about God and Christ but was still too ignorant on the subject to believe implicitly in eternal salvation and that he would like to have instruction from some Christian minister in his last days.

It is called the Hektograph and consists of a flat substance similar to the composition of which printing press rolls are made. From this impression fifty to one hundred copies can be made by simply laying for every copy desired a piece of paper on the flat surface and rubbing the hand over once or twice

A NEW MOTOR

Messrs Hodge Davis & Co wholesale druggists corner of Front and Stark streets have in successful operation one of the Otto gas engines. It is attached to their hoisting machine and is used for elevating goods from the basement and intermediate floors to the upper floor of their extensive warerooms.

The peculiarity of this motor or engine lies in the facts that it requires no boiler no steam no coal or wood no ashes no fires no pumps no gauges no engineer and almost no attendance. It is a new and great motor its power at once [illegible] gas [illegible] boiler and [illegible] less horse power than [illegible] engineers wages [illegible]

[illegible] Mr C [illegible] from [illegible] C H P Gregory [illegible] at present in the city superintended the starting of this engine. He [illegible] these engines [illegible] cubic feet per horse power [illegible] engine used by Messrs Hodge Davis & Co [illegible] two horse [illegible] three feet per [illegible] When we consider that this engine [illegible] contingent [illegible] we conclude that it will revolutionize the present mode of obtaining power by the steam engine for all powers [illegible]

A peculiar feature of this engine is the governor which acts instantaneously and regulates the supply of gas exactly as required by the duty of engine so that if but half of one horse power is needed only the amount of gas required to produce that power will be used

Another feature in favor of this motor is the entire absence of all risk by fire an important point when we consider that a steam engine and boiler in a building raises the risk from one to three per cent in the item of insurance. This gas engine is as safe as a common printing press the only fire visible being a gas jet about the size used upon a cigar stand

This engine is now in active service and can be seen at all hours in the day doing its work quietly safely and economically. It is just the thing for hoisting purposes running printing offices machine shops in fact any establishment requiring power. To be appreciated it needs only to be seen

LAUGH AND GROW FAT"

This ancient bit of advice is well enough for spare people but how about those that are already too fat? What is to become of them? Sit still and I'll tell you. Thus far in several hundred cases this great remedy has never failed to reduce a corpulent person from three to six pounds per week. It is perfectly harmless and positively efficient. WM SCHEFFLER'S ST HELENA

SANITARY, VACUUM DISTILLED GRAPE BRANDY AND GOOD CLUB EDGE HILL WINES

Mr Scheffler is sole proprietor of the principle known as the vacuum process of distilling by which the fusil oils are left with the residue and not incorporated with the brandy leaving it pure and free from all deleterious substances which does and must exist in all alcoholic liquors distilled by the usual process of boiling heat. California Physicians have pronounced their preference of it to all other. Doctor Cox government revenue officer at Cincinnati Ohio says in his report that after ten years of close investigation he can safely say that very few if any pure wines or brandy are exported from the Old Continent to this. He has found none in his many analyses—that are doctored before leaving France. The French Consul at Buenos Ayres writes home to his government that so much complaint is made there of the appearance of litharge and other dangerous drugs in all their French wines that there is great danger of losing the trade of the Argentine States. Other proofs could be cited were it necessary to prove the superiority of the best class of California wines and brandy. Orders from responsible parties addressed to Wm Scheffler or Geo H Beach St. Helena Napa county Cal will receive prompt attention

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

[Concluded from First Page.]

] parts of the world. Its removal from its present locality would not only be conducive to the health but to its usefulness.

Judicial Expenses.

The appropriation bills for judicial expenses, which have heretofore been made for the department of justice in gross, was subdivided at the last session of congress, and no appropriation whatever was made for the payment of the fees of marshals and their deputies, either in the service of process or for the discharge of other duties, and since June 30 the officers have continued the performance of their duties without compensation from the government, taking upon themselves the necessary incidental outlays as well as rendering their own services. In only a few unavoidable instances has the proper execution of the process of the United States failed by reason of the absence of the requisite appropriation. This course of official conduct on the part of these officers, highly creditable to their fidelity, was advised by the attorney general, who informed them, however, that they would necessarily have to rely for their compensation upon the prospect of future legislation by congress. I therefore especially recommend that immediate appropriation be made by congress for this purpose.

The act making the principal appropriation for the department of justice at previous sessions has uniformly contained the following clause: "And for defraying the expenses which may be incurred in the enforcement of the act approved Feb. 28, 1870, entitled an act to amend an act approved May 20, 1870, entitled an act to enforce the right of citizens of the United States to vote in the several states of the United States, and for other purposes or any acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto." No appropriation was made for this purpose for the current year, as no general election of members of congress occurred, the omission was a matter of little practical importance. Such an election will, however, take place during the ensuing year and the appropriation made for the pay of marshals and deputies should be sufficient to embrace the compensation for the services they may be required to perform at such election.

The United States Courts.

The business of the supreme court is at present largely in arrears. It cannot be expected that more causes can be decided than are now disposed of in its annual session, or that by any assiduity the distinguished magistrates who compose the court, can accomplish more than is now done. In the courts of many of the circuits, also, the business has increased to such an extent that the delay of justice will call the attention of congress to an appropriate remedy. It is believed that all is done in each circuit which can fairly be expected from its judicial force. The evils arising from delay are less heavily felt by the United States than by other parties, as the causes are advanced by the courts when it is seen that they involve the discussion of questions of a public character. The remedy suggested by the attorney general, is the appointment of additional circuit judges and the creation of an intermediate court of errors and appeals which shall relieve the supreme court of part of its jurisdiction, while a larger force is also suggested for the performance of circuit duties. I commend this suggestion to the consideration of congress. It would seem to afford a complete remedy and would involve the appointment of ten additional judges and an expenditure at the present rate of salaries of not more than $60,000 a year, which would certainly be small in comparison with the objects to be attained.

Postal Affairs.

The report of the postmaster general bears testimony to the general revival of business throughout the country. The receipts of the postoffice department for the year ending June 30, 1879, were $30,041,982 86, being $764,465 91 more than the revenues of the preceding year. The amount realized from the sale of postage stamps, stamped envelopes and postal cards was $764,465 91 more than in the preceding year and $2,387,559 23 more than in 1877. The expenditures of the department were $33,449,899 45, of which the sum of $376,461 63 was paid on liabilities incurred in the preceding year. The expenditures during the year were $801,209 77 less than in the preceding year. This reduction is attributed mainly to the operation of a law passed June 17, 1878, changing the compensation of postmasters from a commission on the value of the stamps sold to a commission on stamps canceled. The amount drawn from the treasury on appropriations, in addition to the revenues of the department was $3,031,454 91, being $2,276,197 86 less than in the preceding year. The expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1881, are estimated at $39,920,900, and the receipts from all sources at $32,210,000, leaving a deficiency to be appropriated for out of the treasury of $7,710,900.

The relations of the department with railroad companies have been harmonized, notwithstanding a general reduction by congress of their compensation by the appropriation for special facilities. The railway postoffice lines have been greatly extended, especially in the southern states. The interests of the railway mail service and of the public should be greatly promoted, and the expenditure could be more readily controlled by the classification of the employes of the railway mail service as recommended by the postmaster general.

The postmaster general recommends the amendment of the law regulating the increase of compensation for increased service and increased speed on star routes, so as to enable him to advertise for proposals for such increased service and speed. He also suggests the advantages to accrue to the commerce of the country from the enactment of a general law, authorizing contracts with American built steamers carrying the American flag, transporting the mails between ports of the United States and ports of the West Indies and South America at a fixed maximum price per mile, the amount to be expended being regulated by annual appropriations in like manner with the amount paid for the domestic star service. The arrangement made by the postmaster general and the secretary of the treasury, for the collection of duty upon books received in the mail from foreign countries, has proved so satisfactory in its practical operation, that they recommend that congress extend the provisions of the act of March 3, 1879, under which this arrangement was made, so as to apply to all other dutiable articles received in the mails from foreign countries.

The Indian Wards.

The reports of the secretary of the interior and the commissioner of Indian affairs, setting forth the present state of our relations with the Indian tribes on our territory, the measures taken to advance their civilization and prosperity, and the progress already achieved by them will be found of more than ordinary interest. The general conduct of our Indian population has been so satisfactory that the occurrence of two disturbances which resulted in bloodshed and destruction of property is all the more to be lamented. The history of the outbreak on the White river Utes reservation has become so familiar by an elaborate report in the public press that its remarkable incidents need not here be stated in detail. It is expected that the settlement of this difficulty will lead to such arrangements that will prevent further hostile contact between the Indians and the border settlements in Western Colorado. The other disturbance occurred in the Mescalero agency in New Mexico, where Victoria, the head of a small band of marauders, after committing many atrocities and being vigorously chased by a military force made his way across the Mexican border, and is now on foreign soil. While the occurrences in which a comparatively small number of Indians were engaged are most deplorable, a vast majority of our Indian population have fully justified the expectations of those who believed that by humane and peaceful influences the Indians can be led to abandon the habits of savage life and to develop a capacity for civilized occupations. What they have already accomplished in the pursuit of agricultural and mechanical work, the remarkable success which has attended the experiment of employing as freighters a class of Indians hitherto counted among the wildest and most intractable, and the general and urgent desire expressed by them for the education of their children, may be taken as sufficient proof that they will be found capable of accomplishing much more if they continue to be wisely and fairly guided by the Indian policy sketched in the report of the secretary of the interior, the object of which is to make liberal provision for the education of Indian youth; to settle the Indians upon farm lots in severalty; to give them title in fee to their farms inalienable for a certain number of years; and when their wants are provided for to dispose by sale of the lands on their reservations not occupied and used by them; a fund to be formed out of the proceeds for the benefit of the Indians which will gradually relieve the government of the expenses now provided for by annual appropriation, must commend itself as just and beneficial to the Indians and as also calculated to remove those obstructions which the existence of large reservations prevents, to the settlement and development of the country. I therefore earnestly recommend the enactment of a law enabling the government to give Indians a title in fee inalienable for twenty-five years to the farm lands assigned to them by allotment, and also repeat the recommendation made in my first annual message, that a law be passed admitting Indians, who can give satisfactory proof of having, by their own labor, supported their families for a number of years, and who are willing to detach themselves from their tribal relations, to the benefit of the homestead act and to grant them patents containing the same provision of inalienability for a certain period. The experiment of sending a number of Indian children of both sexes to the Hampton Normal Agricultural Institute in Virginia to receive an elementary English education and practical instruction in farming and other useful industries, has led to results so promising that it was thought expedient to turn over the military barracks at Carlisle, in Pennsylvania, to the interior department, for the establishment of an Indian school on a larger scale. This school has now 158 pupils selected from various tribes and is in full operation. Arrangements are also made for the education of a number of Indian boys and girls belonging to tribes on the Pacific slope in a similar manner at Forest Grove in Oregon. These institutions will commend themselves to the liberality of congress and to the philanthropic munificence of the American people.

Last spring information was received of the organization of an extensive development in the western states, the object of which was the occupation by unauthorized persons of certain lands in the Indian territory ceded by the Cherokees to the government for the purpose of settlement by the Indian tribes. On the 29th of April I issued a proclamation, warning all persons against participation in such an attempt, and by the co-operation of a military force the invasion was promptly checked. It is my purpose to protect the rights of the Indians in that territory to the full extent of the executive power, but it would be unwise to ignore the fact that a territory so large and so fertile, with a population so sparse and so great a wealth of unused resources, will be found more exposed to the repetition of such attempts as happened this year when the surrounding states are more densely settled and the westward movement of our population looks still more eagerly for forest and fresh lands to occupy. Under such circumstances the difficulty of maintaining the Indian territory in its present state will greatly increase and the Indian tribes inhabiting it would do well to prepare for such a contingency. I therefore fully approve of the advice given to them by the secretary of the interior on a recent occasion: "To divide among themselves in severalty as large a quantity of their lands as they can cultivate, to acquire individual titles in fee instead of their present tribal ownership in common, and to consider in what manner the balance of their lands may be disposed of by the government for their benefit." By adopting such a policy they would more certainly secure for themselves the value of their possessions and at the same time promote their progress in civilization and prosperity than by endeavoring to perpetuate the present state of things in the territory.

The question whether a change in the control of the Indian service should be made was in the 45th congress referred to a joint committee of both houses for inquiry and report. In my last annual message I expressed the hope that the decision of that question, then in prospect, would arrest further agitation of this subject. Such agitation being apt to produce a disturbing effect upon the service as well as the Indians themselves. Since then the committee having reported, the question has been decided in the negative by a vote of the house of representatives for the reasons here stated, and in view of the fact that further uncertainty on this point will be calculated to obstruct other much needed legislation, to weaken the discipline of the service, and to unsettle salutary measures now in progress for the government and improvement of the Indians. I respectfully recommend that the decision arrived at by congress at its last session be permitted to stand.

Efforts made by the department of the interior to arrest the depredations on timber lands of the United States have been continued and have met with considerable success. A large number of cases of trespass have been prosecuted in the courts of the United States. Others have been settled, the trespassers offering to make payment to the government for the value of timber taken by them. The proceeds of these prosecutions and settlements turned into the treasury far exceed in amount the sums appropriated by congress for this purpose. A more important result, however, consists in the fact that the destruction of our public forests by depredation, although such cases still occur, has been greatly reduced in extent and it is probable that if the present policy is vigorously pursued and sufficient provision to that end is made by congress, such trespasses, at least those on a large scale, can be entirely suppressed, except in the territories where timber for the daily requirements of the population cannot under the present state of the law be otherwise obtained. I therefore earnestly invite the attention of congress to the recommendation of the secretary of the interior that a law be enacted enabling the government to sell timber from public lands without conveying the fee where such lands are principally valuable for the timber thereon. Such sales to be so regulated as to conform to domestic wants and business requirements, while at the same time guarding against sweeping destruction of forests. The enactment of such a law appears to become a more pressing necessity every day.

Agricultural Interests.

My recommendations in former messages are renewed in favor of enlarging the facilities of the department of agriculture. Agriculture is the leading interest and the permanent industry of our people. It is to the abundance of agricultural production as compared with our home consumption and the largely increased and highly profitable market abroad which we have enjoyed in recent years that we are mainly indebted for our present prosperity as a people. We must look for its continued maintenance to the same substantial resources. There is no branch of industry in which labor directed by scientific knowledge yields such increased production in comparison with unskilled labor, and no branch of the public service to which the encouragement of liberal appropriations can be more appropriately extended. The omission to render such aid is not a wise economy, but, on the contrary, undoubtedly results in losses of immense sums annually that might be saved through well directed efforts by the government to promote this vital interest.

The results already accomplished with the limited means heretofore placed at the command of the department of agriculture is an earnest of what may be expected with increased appropriations for the several purposes indicated in the report of the commissioner with a view to placing the department upon a footing which will enable it to prosecute more effectively the objects for which it is established. Appropriations are needed for a more complete laboratory, for the establishment of a veterinary division and a division of forestry, and for an increase of force. The reinforcements for these and other purposes indicated in the reports herewith submitted, of the immediate necessities of the department, will not involve any expenditure of money that the country cannot with propriety now undertake in the interest of agriculture.

Educational Matters.

It is gratifying to learn from the bureau of education the extent to which educational privileges throughout the United States have been advanced during the year. No more fundamental responsibility rests upon congress than that of devising appropriate measures of financial aid to education, supplemental to local action in the states and territories and the District of Columbia.

The wise forethought of the founders of our government has not only furnished the basis for the support of the common school systems of the newer states, but laid foundations for the maintenance of their universities and colleges of agriculture and the mechanical arts—measures in accordance with this traditional policy. The further benefit of all these interests and the extension of the same advantages to every portion of the country, it is hoped will receive your favorable consideration.

The National Library.

To preserve and perpetuate the national literature should be among the foremost cares of the national legislature. The library gathered at the capital still remains unprovided with any suitable accommodations for its rapidly increasing stores. The magnitude and importance of the collection increased as it is by the deposits made under the law of copyright by domestic and foreign exchanges, and by the scientific library of the Smithsonian institution, call for building accommodations which shall be at once equal and fire proof. The location of such a public building which should provide for the pressing necessities of the present and for the vast increase of the nation's books in the future, is a matter which addresses itself to the discretion of congress. It is earnestly recommended as a measure which should unite all suffrages and which should no longer be delayed.

The Washington Monument.

The joint commission created by the act of congress of August 2, 1876, for the purpose of supervising and directing the completion of the Washington national monument, of which commission the president is a member, has given careful attention to this subject, and already the strengthening of the foundation has so far progressed as to insure the entire success of this part of the work. A massive layer of masonry has been introduced below the original foundation, widening the base, increasing the stability of the structure and rendering it possible to carry the shaft to completion. It is earnestly recommended that such further appropriations be made for the continued prosecution of the work as may be necessary for the completion of this national monument at an early day.

The District of Columbia.

In a former message impressed with the importance of the subject, I have taken occasion to recommend to congress the adoption of a generous policy toward the district of Columbia. The report of the commissioners of the district herewith transmitted, contains suggestions and recommendations, to all of which I earnestly invite your careful attention. I ask your early and favorable consideration of the views which they express: to the urgent need of legislation for the reclamation of the marshes of the Potomac and its eastern branch, within the limits of the city, and for the repair of the streets of the capital, heretofore laid with wooden blocks and now by decay rendered almost impassable and a source of imminent danger to the health of its citizens. The means at the disposal of the commissioner, are wholly inadequate for the accomplishment of these important works and should be supplemented by timely appropriations from the federal treasury. The filling of the flats at the front of the city will add to the value of adjacent lands and parks now owned by the United States, a large and valuable domain sufficient, it is thought, to reimburse its entire cost, and will also as an incidental result secure the permanent improvement of the river for the purpose of navigation.

Having invested congress with supreme and exclusive jurisdiction over the district of Columbia, its citizens must of necessity look to congress alone for all needful legislation affecting their interests, and all the territory of this district is the common property of the people of the United States, who, equally with its resident citizens, are interested in the prosperity of their capital. I cannot doubt that you will be amply sustained by the general voice of the country in any measure you may adopt for this purpose. I also invite the favorable consideration of congress to the wants of the public schools of this district as exhibited in the report of the commissioners. While the number of pupils is rapidly increasing, no adequate provision exists for a corresponding increase of school accommodation, and the commissioners are without the means to meet this urgent need. A number of the buildings now used for school purposes are rented and are in important particulars unsuited for the purpose. The cause of popular education in the district of Columbia is surely entitled to the same consideration at the hands of the national government as in the several states and territories, to which magnificent grants of the public lands have been made for the endowment of schools and universities.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast.

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES.

HAS RETURNED AFTER AN EXTENSIVE tour of the Eastern States, for the last four months. The Doctor while absent visited all the principal Medical Institutions in the large cities of the United States, and comes back with all the modern methods, instruments and appliances known to the most scientific men in the profession. The Doctor has also brought charts and manikins to illustrate his lectures.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN has been fifteen years lecturing on the laws of Life and Health. In his private and public lectures he has taught men and women the true system of life how to be healthy and happy, if they would only be guided by his wise counsel. But all cannot hear his delightful and instructive lectures, nor can he tell everything necessary for a suffering human to know from the [illegible] before a promiscuous audience. There remains much to be learned from him as his experience extends over broad fields of active professional life. This knowledge so necessary to the welfare of the sufferer can only be gleaned by private Professional Consultation at his office.

His experience in the various parts of Europe and America give him such opportunities of learning the delicate diseases which the human family are prone to, their mode of treatment and permanent cure, as no other physician on the Pacific Coast can claim. He has not only treated these diseases most successfully, but has made them a life study, as a few moments' consultation will prove.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

IT IS TRUE

That persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Those who call in time upon DR. PAUL M. BRENAN need have no fear but what he will restore them to perfect health and vigor, make their body pure and their mind content, if they will only follow his advice and treatment.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail. No Quack Nostrums used; no slop treatment; no false promises.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. All fine Surgical Operations performed.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY opens a branch Land Office at Colfax, Whitman county, W. T., and offers for sale a portion of its lands in the Pen d'Oreille Division, for the present, at the remarkably low price of THREE DOLLARS per acre for CASH, and Four Dollars per acre on time, as follows: ⅙ Cash down, the remainder in four equal annual payments, with interest annually at seven per cent per annum.

The right is reserved to change above prices and terms at any time before written agreements are executed. All persons who have applications to purchase on file with the Railroad Company can be relieved of anxiety and doubt as to what the lands will cost on which they have settled by applying at once to the Company's Office in Colfax and purchasing the same.

As the lands of the Pen d'Oreille Division are now offered for sale, no more "settlers applications to purchase" will be placed on file.

The lands now offered are situated in the following described Townships:
